Scientists At City University Of Hong Kong Distinguished Cancer-Derived Nanovesicles By AuNIs-LSPR Biosensor

Cancer has always been a dreaded disease, which claims millions of life annually. The available cancer treatment options include chemotherapy, radiotherapy, and surgery depending on the location and stage of malignant behaviour of cancer. The early diagnosis of cancer has often been seen as a boon for the treatment of patients suffering from cancer, which requires biopsy; a method which requires collection of tissue sample from tumor followed by their analysis. The method of biopsy is highly invasive as it involves surgery, whereas the emerging of use of extracellular vesicles (EVs) such as exosomes and microvesicles (MVs), has led to development of non-invasive liquid biopsy. EVs are nanovesicle which are released from most of the cells, and biofluids including blood, cerebrospinal fluid, urine, etc. Their role has been found in metastasis of various cancer including glioma; a deadly brain cancer. Despite tremendous research on EVs, there has been a lack of clear consensus about the characterization of exosomes and MVs. Dr. Youngjin Lee (Department of Biomedical Sciences) and Prof. Chi-Man

Lawrence Wu (Department of Material Science and Engineering) at City University of Hong Kong, discovered that the two important EVs derived from cancer cells react differently towards the gold nanoislands (AuNIs)-localised surface plasmon resonance (LSPR) biosensor. Their research team include Dr. Abhimanyu Thakur, Dr. Guangyue Qiu, Dr. Siu-Pang NG, Jintao Guan, and Dr. Jianbo Yue. Their discovery suggests that exosomes and MVs possess different biophysical characteristics, which can be useful for liquid biopsy in cancer diagnosis as well as prognosis. Their work has been published in a top journal related to biosensing (Thakur A et al, Biosensors and Bioelectronics 2017, 94: 400-407; DOI: 10.1016/j.bios.2017.03.036). Dr. Abhimanyu Thakur said, "Cancer derived exosomes and microvesicles have distinct biophysical characters, which can be used as a diagnostic marker. Our lab is still exploring this field by using advanced bioengineering tools such as atomic force microscopy (AFM), which are utilised for studying topological surface properties at manometer to picometer scale". Drugmakers Look To Use Purdue Pharma's Bankruptcy To Settle Opioid Suits -WSJ

Endo International Plc, Johnson & Johnson and other drugmakers that face litigation over the opioid crisis are exploring a way to settle the cases by participating in Purdue Pharma LP's bankruptcy, the Wall Street Journal reported, citing internal documents and a person familiar with the matter. Five drugmakers battling the cases - Endo, J&J, Teva Pharmaceutical Industries Ltd, Allergan Plc and Mallinckrodt Plc - are looking to enact a global settlement of the litigation that would be implemented through Purdue's Chapter 11 case, the WSJ reported citing a person familiar with the matter. The mechanism, if successful, would allow the companies to contribute money into a trust set up through the bankruptcy in exchange for a complete release from liability, according to the report.

विटामिन डी की कमी से बच्चों में आता है गुस्सा और चिड़चिड़ापन खिलाएं ये 7 फूड्स

क्या आपको हैरानी नहीं होती जब छोटे बच्चों को गुस्सा आता है या वे जिद करते हैं? बच्चों में चिड़चिड़ेपन को अक्सर लोग परिवार के किसी सदस्य का अनुशासिक असर मानकर नजर अंदाज कर देते हैं. मगर बच्चों के चिड़चिड़े स्वभाव का कारण उनमें विटामिन डी की कमी भी हो सकती है. जी हाँ, हाल में हुई एक रिसर्च में इस बात का खुलासा किया गया है कि विटामिन डी की कमी से छोटे बच्चों में चिड़चिड़ेपन की समस्या हो सकती है. ये रिसर्च 'जर्नल ऑफ न्यूट्रीशन' नाम के जर्नल में छपी गई है. इस रिसर्च में पता चलने वाली मुख्य बातें और विटामिन डी वाले आहार, जिन्हें बच्चों को खिलाने से चिड़चिड़ापन दूर होगा. क्या कहती है रिसर्च?:- Journal of Nutrition में छपे एक नए रिसर्च के अनुसार विटामिन डी की कमी से स्कूल जाने वाले (5 साल से बड़े) बच्चों में एक तरह का चिड़चिड़ापन आ जाता है और उनका व्यवहार आक्रामक हो जाता है. इसके अलावा ऐसे बच्चे अपने आप में खोए हुए, चिंतित और अवसादग्रस्त हो जाते हैं. इन बच्चों में जल्दी-जल्दी मूड बदलने (मूड स्विंग्स) की समस्या देखी जाती है. ये रिसर्च मिशिगन यूनिवर्सिटी द्वारा की गई है. हमारे शरीर के स्वास्थ्य के साथ-साथ विटामिन्स और पोषक तत्व हमारे मूड को भी प्रभावित करते हैं. आपको शारीरिक और मानसिक रूप से स्वस्थ रहने के लिए सभी तरह के पोषक तत्वों

की जरूरत होती है. इस रिसर्च के लिए प्राइमरी स्कूल में पढ़ने वाले 5 साल से 12 साल की उम्र के 3202 बच्चों पर अध्ययन किया गया. इन बच्चों की रोजाना की आदतें, माँ-बाप का शैक्षिक बैकग्राउंड, वजन, लंबाई और उनके खानपान आदि को ध्यान में रखकर शोधकर्ताओं ने आँकड़े जुटाए और फिर ब्लड टेस्ट किया. इसके बाद उन्होंने निष्कर्ष दिया कि छोटे बच्चों में विटामिन डी की कमी से व्यवहार परिवर्तन की समस्या बढ़ गई है. बच्चों में विटामिन डी की कमी:- मुख्य शोधकर्ता प्रोफेसर Eduardo Villamor बताते हैं कि जिन बच्चों में स्कूली शिक्षा के दौरान विटामिन डी की कमी होती है, उनमें बिहैवियर प्रॉब्लम और चिड़चिड़ेपन की समस्या ज्यादा देखी गई है. आपको बता दें कि बच्चों के स्वभाव में चिड़चिड़ेपन की समस्या पिछले कुछ समय में काफी बढ़ गई है. छोटी उम्र में ही बच्चों को छोटी-छोटी बातों पर इतना गुस्सा आता है कि वे गुस्से के कारण चीजा-को तोड़ने-फोड़ने और खुद को नुकसान पहुँचाने में भी नहीं सोचते हैं. क्यों हो रही है बच्चों में विटामिन डी की कमी?:- गाँवों की अपेक्षा शहरों में बच्चों में विटामिन डी की कमी ज्यादा तेजी से बढ़ी है. विटामिन डी का सबसे अच्छा प्राकृतिक स्रोत सूरज की किरणें हैं. आजकल शहरों में बच्चे बाहर पार्क में खेलने के बजाय घर के अंदर रहना ज्यादा पसंद करते हैं. इसके अलावा आजकल स्कूलों में बच्चों को इतना काम दे दिया जाता है, जिससे उनके पास खेलने-कूदने का टाइम नहीं मिलता है. ये बच्चों में विटामिन डी की कमी के बड़े कारण हैं. इसके अलावा बच्चों में जंक फूड्स, रेडी टू ईट फूड्स, साँपट ड्रिंक्स आदि की लत के कारण भी विटामिन डी की कमी आहार:- विटामिन डी का सबसे अच्छा स्रोत दूध है, इसलिए पिलाएं. • योगर्ट भी विटामिन डी का अच्छा स्रोत है. बच्चों के सकते हैं. • मशरूम विटामिन डी का सबसे अच्छा स्रोत है वाली डिशज बनाकर दें. • चीज खाना बच्चों को पसंद होता है. • अंडे के पीले हिस्से में विटामिन डी होता है. • संतरे का मछलियाँ विटामिन डी का अच्छा स्रोत हैं.

राज्य सरकारों द्वारा एस्पिरिन, ब्रूफीन और वोवरेन बैन करने का निर्णय

नई दिल्ली से जानकारी प्राप्त हुआ है कि अगस्त, सितम्बर एवं अक्टूबर में ज्यादा होनी वाली मलेरिया, डेंगू और चिकनगुनिया जैसी बीमारियों से बचाव हेतु दिल्ली सरकार स्वास्थ्य विभाग ने एस्पिरिन, ब्रूफीन और वोवरेन जैसे दवाओं को प्रतिबन्धित कर इनको कैमिस्ट शॉप से बिक्री पर पूर्णरूप से बैन कर दी है. स्वास्थ्य विभाग ने ड्रग कन्ट्रोल डिपार्टमेंट को निर्देशित किया है कि वह नॉन स्टेरॉयडल एंटी इन्फ्लामेट्री ड्रग्स को लेकर एडवाइजरी जारी करें और प्रतिबन्धित दवाओं को शेड्यूल एच में डाल दें.

was submitted to the health regulator. The therapy, PT010, was approved in Japan in June as a triple-combination therapy to relieve symptoms of chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD), AstraZeneca said. Colloquially known as smoker's lung, COPD is a progressively worsening and potentially deadly condition that affects more than 380 million people worldwide, primarily caused by smoking but also by occupational hazards such as air pollution or chemical fumes. COPD is predicted to be the third leading cause of death by 2020, according to the British drug-maker. The setback comes as AstraZeneca tries to catch up with domestic rival GlaxoSmithKline's Trelegy, which is delivered through inhaler Ellipta. That treatment pulled in 156 million pounds in sales last year in its use against COPD.

Stable Metal Organic Frameworks Are Prized For Their Ability To Capture Carbon Dioxide Or Harvest Atmospheric Water, But U-M Researchers Have Developed A Use For Unstable Metal Organic Frameworks: As A System For Drug Delivery.

Ninety percent of drugs in development don't dissolve well or at all in the body, according to a 2012 study. Metal organic frameworks, or MOFs, are rigid, porous structures composed of metal linked by organic ligands. While researching unstable MOFs, U-M chemist Adam Matzger realized they may work as a delivery system for these kinds of drugs. "It struck us that while everyone was shooting for stable MOFs, we could use what we had learned about instability of MOFs to get a degradable substance that would rapidly release drugs. It was a really unexpected finding," said Matzger, the Charles G. Overberger Collegiate Professor of Chemistry and a professor of macromolecular science and engineering. The MOF delivery system takes advantage of one strategy of delivering insoluble drugs, Matzger says. The strategy is to deliver them in an amorphous form, meaning that the drugs are kept from crystallizing. Once the drug compounds crystallize, they become less soluble -- and therefore less bioavailable, which means less of the drug crosses into the bloodstream. MOFs are able to keep these drugs in an amorphous state because of their porous structure. MOF-5 in particular looks like a set of cubes stacked on top of each other: picture an endlessly repeating 3D grid. When the researchers load a drug into this grid, the pores in the MOF compartmentalize the drug molecules, holding the compound in the desired amorphous state. Researchers have previously used polymers to hold drug compounds in an amorphous state, but drug molecules could still migrate and crystallize in the polymer, which affects solubility and therefore how much of a drug is bioavailable. Because MOF rigidly holds drug molecules apart but quickly decomposes, drug dosage is easily controlled, Matzger says. The compound itself crosses into the bloodstream, while the MOF decomposes in the body. The researchers, who include postdoctoral fellow Kuthuru Suresh, decided to use MOF-5 for a few reasons. First, its metal component is zinc, a metal with low toxicity used in many supplements, and the organic component is an acid called terephthalic acid. Second, MOF-5 is relatively unstable, which the researchers demonstrated in separate work that examined the stability of different MOFs. "What we do here is we increase the solubility while guaranteeing dosage stability," Matzger said. "This approach is relatively universal. We show it for three drugs, but the fact that the pores are too small to allow a crystal to form is going to be true for all drugs."

Nucala Is The First Biologic Approved In The US For Six To 11-year-Old Children With Severe Eosinophilic Asthma

GlaxoSmithKline:- announced that the US Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has approved Nucala (mepolizumab) for use in children as young as six years old who are living with severe eosinophilic asthma.

Nucala is the only targeted biologic to be approved for the condition in the six to 11-year age group in the US. Dr Hal Barron, Chief Scientific Officer and President, R&D, GSK, Mob:- 09711110134, 09873604249 said:

"Children with severe eosinophilic asthma currently have limited treatment choices available to them. We believe this important new indication for Nucala is a significant development for these children and their families". Tonya Winders, CEO and President, Allergy and Asthma Network, noted: "As a mother of children who suffer from asthma, I know first-hand the huge impact it has on a family, from the constant worry about your child being hospitalised, to practical issues like arranging time off work to care for them. Having Nucala approved as the first biologic for treating severe eosinophilic asthma in this young age group represents a significant step forward for the asthma community."

The FDA approval is supported by an open-label study, conducted in children aged six to 11 years and suffering from severe eosinophilic asthma, that investigated Nucala's pharmacokinetics, pharmacodynamics and long-term safety. Evidence from adequate and well-controlled trials in adults and adolescents also supported approval in this age group. The 52-week long-term phase of the study showed that the safety profile in paediatric patients aged six to 11 years was similar to the known safety profile in patients aged 12 years and older. Dr Daniel Jackson, MD, Department of Pediatrics, University of Wisconsin, added: "Severe eosinophilic asthma in children is a complicated condition that can be extremely challenging to treat. Nucala has made a difference for many adults and adolescents living with severe asthma. This approval is an important development, giving physicians like me a much-needed option to consider for our paediatric patients". Nucala (100mg dose subcutaneous injection) was first approved in 2015 as an add-on maintenance treatment for patients with severe eosinophilic asthma aged 12 years and older. This approval (40mg dose subcutaneous injection) extends the current indication in the US for Nucala to patients aged six to 11 years. Nucala has been approved for use as an add-on treatment for severe eosinophilic asthma in patients aged six years and older in the EU since August 2018.
